the 1990s, the government has been able to reduce the number of people who are uninsured.

There are two reasons why the government has been able to reduce the number of uninsured people. First, the government has been able to increase the number of people who are covered by private health insurance. Second, the government has been able to increase the number of people who are covered by public health insurance. The government has been able to do this by increasing the number of people who are eligible for public health insurance and by increasing the number of people who are covered by private health insurance.

The government has been able to increase the number of people who are covered by private health insurance by increasing the number of people who are eligible for private health insurance. The government has been able to do this by increasing the number of people who are employed by large firms and by increasing the number of people who are self-employed. The government has also been able to increase the number of people who are covered by private health insurance by increasing the number of people who are covered by private health insurance.

The government has been able to increase the number of people who are covered by public health insurance by increasing the number of people who are eligible for public health insurance. The government has been able to do this by increasing the number of people who are unemployed and by increasing the number of people who are retired.
