Typical deck installations require that the ledger board be attached to the house for additional support. Free standing decks such as pool decks also use a ledger board. This board is used to support the joists and is installed between the joists and outer fascia. Some installations may or may not utilize an outer fascia board. If no fascia board is used the ledger board will act as both the ledger board and the fascia. Consult a store associate and your local building department personnel for specific details concerning your deck.
